D Numb. 109.

The Daily Courant.

Monday, Auguſt 24. 1702.

From the Harlem Courant, Dated Aug. 29.

Cadiz, July 31.

ON the 7th, a Tartan arriv'd here from the Canaries, with Letters and paſſengers from Vera Cruz and the Havana; the Letters adviſe that the Plate Fleet is ſtill at Vera Cruz: but the Paſſengers ſay, That Count Chateauregnault went from the Havana on the 25th of April with 6 Ships, to bring that Fleet from Vera Cruz to the Havana. If this be true, we may expect it home in the Winter. We are providing for the defence of this place in caſe the Engliſh and Dutch Fleet ſhould make an attempt upon us: Cannon and Mortars are planted on the Walls, and a Parapet is making round them; a Fort is likewiſe raiſing on the Point of St. Sebaſtian, which will be furniſh'd with 40 pieces of Cannon.

From the Amſterdam Courant, Dated Aug. 29.

Lisbon, Aug. 1. The Prince of Heſſe Darmſtadt has been frequently in conference with the King, and on Saturday laſt had a publick Audience, and was well receiv'd by his Majeſty. Though in what Character, or with what Commiſſion he is come hither, is not yet known. There are no more French Men of War arriv'd. The coming of the Confederate Fleet is expected very impatiently.

Frankfort, Aug. 23. They write from before Landau, That the beſieged ſhot red-hot Bullets into the Camp of the Imperialiſts, one of which ſet Fire to a Barrel of Powder on General Thungen's Battery, which blew up 30 Men. That at the Great Attack they had carry'd on their Approaches to the Counterſcarp; but the beſieged have made ſo many Mines, that a great deal of time is loſt in digging to diſcover them. At General Thungen's Attack, there is ſo wide a Breach made in one of the Baſtions of the Cittadel, that it was reſolv'd yeſterday to ſtorm it: and a great number of Wooll-Sacks and Faſcines are brought into the Camp, to fill up the Ditch when the Aſſault is given. 'Tis advis'd from the Hondsrug, That the Marquis de Villars, with the Body of Men under his Command is gone towards Lorrain to ſtrengthen the Garriſons of Saarbruck and other fortified places on the Saar. A Detachment from the Army before Landau is ſent to obſerve him, and to cover Traerbach and other places thereabouts.

Cologne, Aug. 25. Since the taking of Kempen by General Heyde, the Enemy has abandon'd Alpen and ſome other little places; yet an Officer with 50 or 60 Men continues in Linn, in hopes of being cover'd by a Body of 10 or 12000 French, that lies between Erkelens and Keyſerſwaert: but there being 15000 of the Confederates between Herd and Buderith; 'tis believ'd the French will hardly move. At Mulheim, where at preſent there are 4 Regiments, a large Camp is mark'd out; and the Inhabitants of the Country are order'd to remove their beſt Effects hitherwards, or towards Duſſeldorp; which makes it probable that either the Allies deſign to have a great Body of Men on that ſide of the Rhine, or that they are apprehenſive of the Enemy's ravaging.

Weſel, Aug. 25. The French have planted Cannon on the Bank of the Rhine at Rhinberg to hinder Ships from paſſing: and to day they made 15 Shot at 2 Veſſels which had Paſſes from General Heide, and ſeiz'd two little Boats that were coming down the River: Upon which an Adjutant-General is ſent from hence to Monſieur de Grammont the Governor of Rhinberg, to demand the reaſon of it.

Breſlau, Aug. 20. According to our laſt Advices from Cracow, The King of Poland lies with his Saxon Troops at Tarnowa, 10 Miles from Cracow, waiting to be joyn'd by the Army of the Crown; which on the 9th, was advanc'd within 2 Miles of him; the General (Prince Lubomirski) is already come to the King.

From the Harlem Courant, Dated Aug. 29.

Tarnowits, Aug. 16. On the 11th, the King of Sweden entred Cracow. He was welcom'd by the Magiſtrates; and order'd Proclamation to be made, that every Man might follow his Buſineſs in quiet, for that none ſhould ſuffer in their Perſon or Goods. And 'tis advis'd from Dantzick of the 19th, that he has given Audience to the Imperial Ambaſſador.

From the Amſterdam Courant, Dated Aug. 29.

Mittau, Aug. 14. Letters from Revel ſay, That the Muſcovites had ſtorm'd Dorpat twice, and were beaten off.

But from Amſterdam of the 28th, 'tis advis'd that they have Letters from Revel which ſay, That the Muſcovites have left Dorpat, and are moving forwards, ſpoiling all the Country in their March. And from Nerva of the 4th 'tis advis'd, that they have a deſign to make another attempt upon Nerva, and that ſome of their Troops were advancing towards that place.

From the Leiden Gazette, Dated Aug. 29.

Paris, Aug. 21. The Report of the Duke of Lorrain's having made a Treaty with our King, and that His Majeſty had order'd his Troops to take poſſeſſion of the beſt Places of that Dutchy, proves falſe. On the contrary, the K. has conſented to his remaining Neuter, on the Conditions agreed to by the Emperor ſome time ago; for which the Envoy of Lorrain return'd Thanks in the laſt Audience that he had of his Majeſty. 'Tis ſaid, the Venetian Ambaſſador is diſſatisfied with the King's Anſwer to his Complaints againſt the Chevalier de Fourbin, which was, that he approv'd of the Chevalier's Conduct; and 'tis believ'd that Affair may produce ill Conſequences. We have advice, That the Count de Thouloufe is arriv'd at Meſſina with his Squadron, and that he has detach'd the Bailly of Lorrain to reinforce Monſieur de Fourbin. 'Tis reported, That Marſhal Catinat being join'd by Monſieur Chamarante with the Detachment from the Low-Countrys, has now 52 Battallions and 65 Squadrons.

In the Paris Gazette of the 26th, 'tis ſaid, That Letters from Alſatia of the 18th adviſe, That on the 17th Marſhal Catinat broke up from Hert, and was advanced to Hochfield, between Saverne and Haguenau,

From the Antwerp Gazette, Dated Aug. 29.

Ghent, Aug. 27. On Friday laſt in the Morning, Council of War was held in the Abbey of St. Peter, by the Marquis of Bedmar, the Count de la Motte, the Marquis Vibre, the Ingenier General Vauban, and other other Generals, Head Officers, and Ingeniers. And in the Afternoon they all went Poſt to Stekenen. To day we had the News of our Troops being ſat down before Hulſt, and that at 11 a Clock laſt Night they poſſeſs'd themſelves of 2 Forts which cover the Sluces, with the loſs of about 200 Men. They are now at work to raiſe Batteries. A great number of Wooll-ſacks, and 50000 Faſcines were ſent thither to day. 'Tis ſaid the Garriſon conſiſts but of 5 or 600 Men. P. S. We are aſſur'd that our Army have made themſelves Maſters of all the Sluces about Hulſt.

London, Aug. 22. Her Majeſty's Ship the Hampſhire, came into the Downs yeſterday from the Squadron that lies before Dunkirk. Monſieur Ponti is ſtill block'd up in that Harbour.
